LIKE MOTHER USED TO MAKE. The smiling be-ginghamed mistress of the bake oven pictured above, as she pauses on the threshold of her Santa Ana kitchen, is Warren G. Harding's California sister, Mrs. E. Remsburg. Says Mrs. Remsburg: "Warren's a good Christian man and he's not lazy. Mother always taught him to try to please his Creator first, so I know he'll do right." International

Right—A HARD MAN TO STOP. Another spirited football action photo of the grand and glorious game as played on the Coast. The rule against hurdling apparently isn't taken seriously in this Los Angeles game between the University of Southern California and Nevada, judging by the way Charlie Dean, brilliant back of the California eleven, is going over the top of the Nevada line. Dean contributed four touchdowns to his team's winning score. International

CAPTAIN W. W. NUTTING, nervy skipper of the 45-foot auxiliary ketch Typhoon, and editor of Motor Boating, photographed at the wheel of his sturdy little craft as it came to anchor off Staten Island last Monday after crossing the Atlantic twice, the second time in spite of a terrific gale, the worst storm of the season, that lay in wait for her on the edge of the Gulf Stream. The first leg of Typhoon's 8,000-mile voyage, from Nova Scotia to England, was made in 22 days—the return trip started from Corunna, Spain, on September 20. The Typhoon was constructed to demonstrate that a small boat, properly designed and intelligently handled could live through any stress of weather. And her splendid performance more than justifies the contention. Levick

Left—CHAMPION TURKEY TROTTER OF TEXAS. After the annual parade down Main Street, Curoo, Tex., this 38-pound gobbler was picked as the finest of the 7,500 strutters in the line of march and was straightway dispatched to the White House. The crate in which the bird was shipped to President Wilson is a miniature of the Texas State Capitol at Austin. Underwood

Right—CONSTANCE, SCOUT and LOUISE—all members of Governor-elect Miller's family, who move to Albany the first of the new year. Scout, the adored pet of all the Miller children, is a splendid German police dog, who takes no back barks from any canine, whether pedigreed or mut, in the whole of New York State. Saratoga Post Standard
